See you in Gastein!*

A woman with long brown hair is lying on her stomach on a massage table in a cave. She is wearing an orange towel and has her head resting on her arms. The cave walls are made of rough, grey rock. In the background, other people are visible lying on tables, and there are blue towels hanging on the wall. The lighting is warm and focused on the woman.

THE GASTEIN HEALING GALLERY

THIS IS THE GASTEIN HEALING GALLERY

From goldmine to health centre

In the 1940s, goldmining in the Gastein Valley was reactivated. But instead of the hoped-for gold, water vapour containing radon was found inside the Radhausberg mine. When, after having worked in the gallery for a while, many of the miners in the gallery reported relief of their rheumatic complaints, comprehensive tests were initiated – and this led to the ground-breaking discovery to which the Gastein Healing Gallery now thanks its existence.

Worldwide unique

And this is due to the combination of the following factors to be found inside the Radhausberg mountain:

Radon content: 44 kBq/m³ air
Heat: 37 – 41.5°C (98.6 – 106.7°F)
Air Humidity: 75 – 100 %

The therapy in the Gastein Healing Gallery is regarded as the most effective form of radon therapy. Since 1952, the healing gallery train has been bringing patients into the Radhausberg, to one of a total of five therapy stations.

The effect of healing gallery therapy

The therapy consists of mild overheating (hyperthermia) and radon intake via the respiratory passages and skin. These effects of therapy are proven by numerous studies:

Pain relief (on average 9 months)
Medication reduction (up to 1 year)
Anti-Inflammatory effect
Immune Stabilisation
Relaxation & stress relief

8 to 12 sessions (also less in the case of milder complaints) in a period of two to three weeks are recommended.

Through regular repetition of the healing gallery therapy, the intake of painkillers is reduced over the long term, thus increasing quality of life.

A centre for health

The healing gallery is supplemented by a health centre with modern treatment rooms, a professional team of doctors and therapists, and a wide and holistic range of therapies. The therapy is recognised by Austrian and German health insurance schemes such as the South Tyrolean medical service.

COURSE OF THERAPY & INDICATIONS

1st session

COURSE OF HEALING GALLERY THERAPY

Medical examination

Before the first session in the healing gallery, a medical examination is carried out. This can be performed by the assigning Gastein spa doctor or one of our doctors. An interim examination during the course of the therapy is possible and is recommended, especially for new patients. A final discussion, on the other hand, is necessary, thoroughly useful, and included in our prices.

Preparation for the session

For the session, you will need bathing clothes, a bathrobe and a small towel. You can hire these items from us for a fee. A towel to lie on is included in the price – you will receive this as you board the healing gallery train. You lose an average of 1.5 liters of fluid during a session inside the healing gallery. This is the minimum amount of water you should consume daily – spread over the day – but 1 liter more on hot days.

Session with the healing gallery train

The healing gallery therapy takes place a good two kilometres inside the Radhausberg. A small train transports you into the gallery, where there are five different therapeutic zones varying in temperature and humidity. Every healing gallery therapy starts at Station 1 (heat: 37°C (98.6°F) | air humidity: 75%). On further sessions, and depending on the well-being and medical recommendations, you can gradually change over to the next station, with higher temperature and air humidity.

Therapy inside the gallery

The stay in the therapy area lasts around 60 minutes, and a medical professional is constantly present. Women and men are spatially separated from each other at the stations. Enjoy the peace and quiet and relax on your bed.

After the session

Our doctors recommend 30 minutes rest in the relaxation rooms of the health centre after entry.

Disabled-friendly access

Our entire health centre offers disabled-friendly access. We will also be pleased to offer you help with your mobility. You will enter the gallery in the couchette and are assisted on and off the train.

INSIDE THE HEALING
GALLERY THERE IS A VERY SPECIAL ATMOSPHERE,
ONE THAT SIMPLY DOES
YOU GOOD

Bettina Staib, patient in the Gastein Healing Gallery

"A therapy at the Gastein Healing Gallery can achieve amazing results. Pain and fatigue often improve significantly, and pain medication can be reduced and sometimes discontinued altogether. Fewer health complaints also have a positive effect on your quality of life. Patients for whom medication fails to bring relief can also benefit greatly from the healing gallery therapy."

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE

Successful for decades

The effect of radon, especially in the treatment of rheumatic diseases, has been proven for a good century now and is still used very successfully in a variety of forms of application.

How it works

Radon is a radioactive inert gas that is taken in predominantly via the respiratory passages and the skin. It stimulates the body's cellular metabolism, reduces free radicals and activates healing-promoting and anti-inflammatory messenger substances, which in turn encourages the body's self-healing capabilities. The mild overheating from the climate in the healing gallery assists the effect of the radon and leads to long-lasting pain relief. Radiation and the moist heat also regulate the autonomic nervous system which is imbalanced in a considerable number of chronic diseases, including autoimmune and pain diseases. On average, the radiation dose from a three-week healing gallery therapy is below the annual radiation exposure from natural sources.

Scientific studies

The positive effects of overheating (= hyperthermia) have been known for thousands of years and are scientifically proven on a wide-ranging basis. Several high-quality studies have been carried out, which scientifically prove the effect of radon therapy. The Gastein Healing Gallery therapy has already been the object of scientific research since 1946, in close cooperation with the Gastein Research Institute and the Paracelsus Private Medical University of Salzburg. This research and testing has not only provided valuable findings for the understanding of the operation of radon, but has also helped us to be able to meet the criteria of EBM (evidence-based medicine) more and more closely. The therapy's success rate speaks for itself: depending on the precise medical indications, it is as high as 90 %.

THE FOLLOWING THERAPY SUCCESSSES HAVE BEEN PROVEN IN STUDIES:

Pain relief (on average 9 months)

Medication reduction (up to 1 year)

Anti-Inflammatory effect

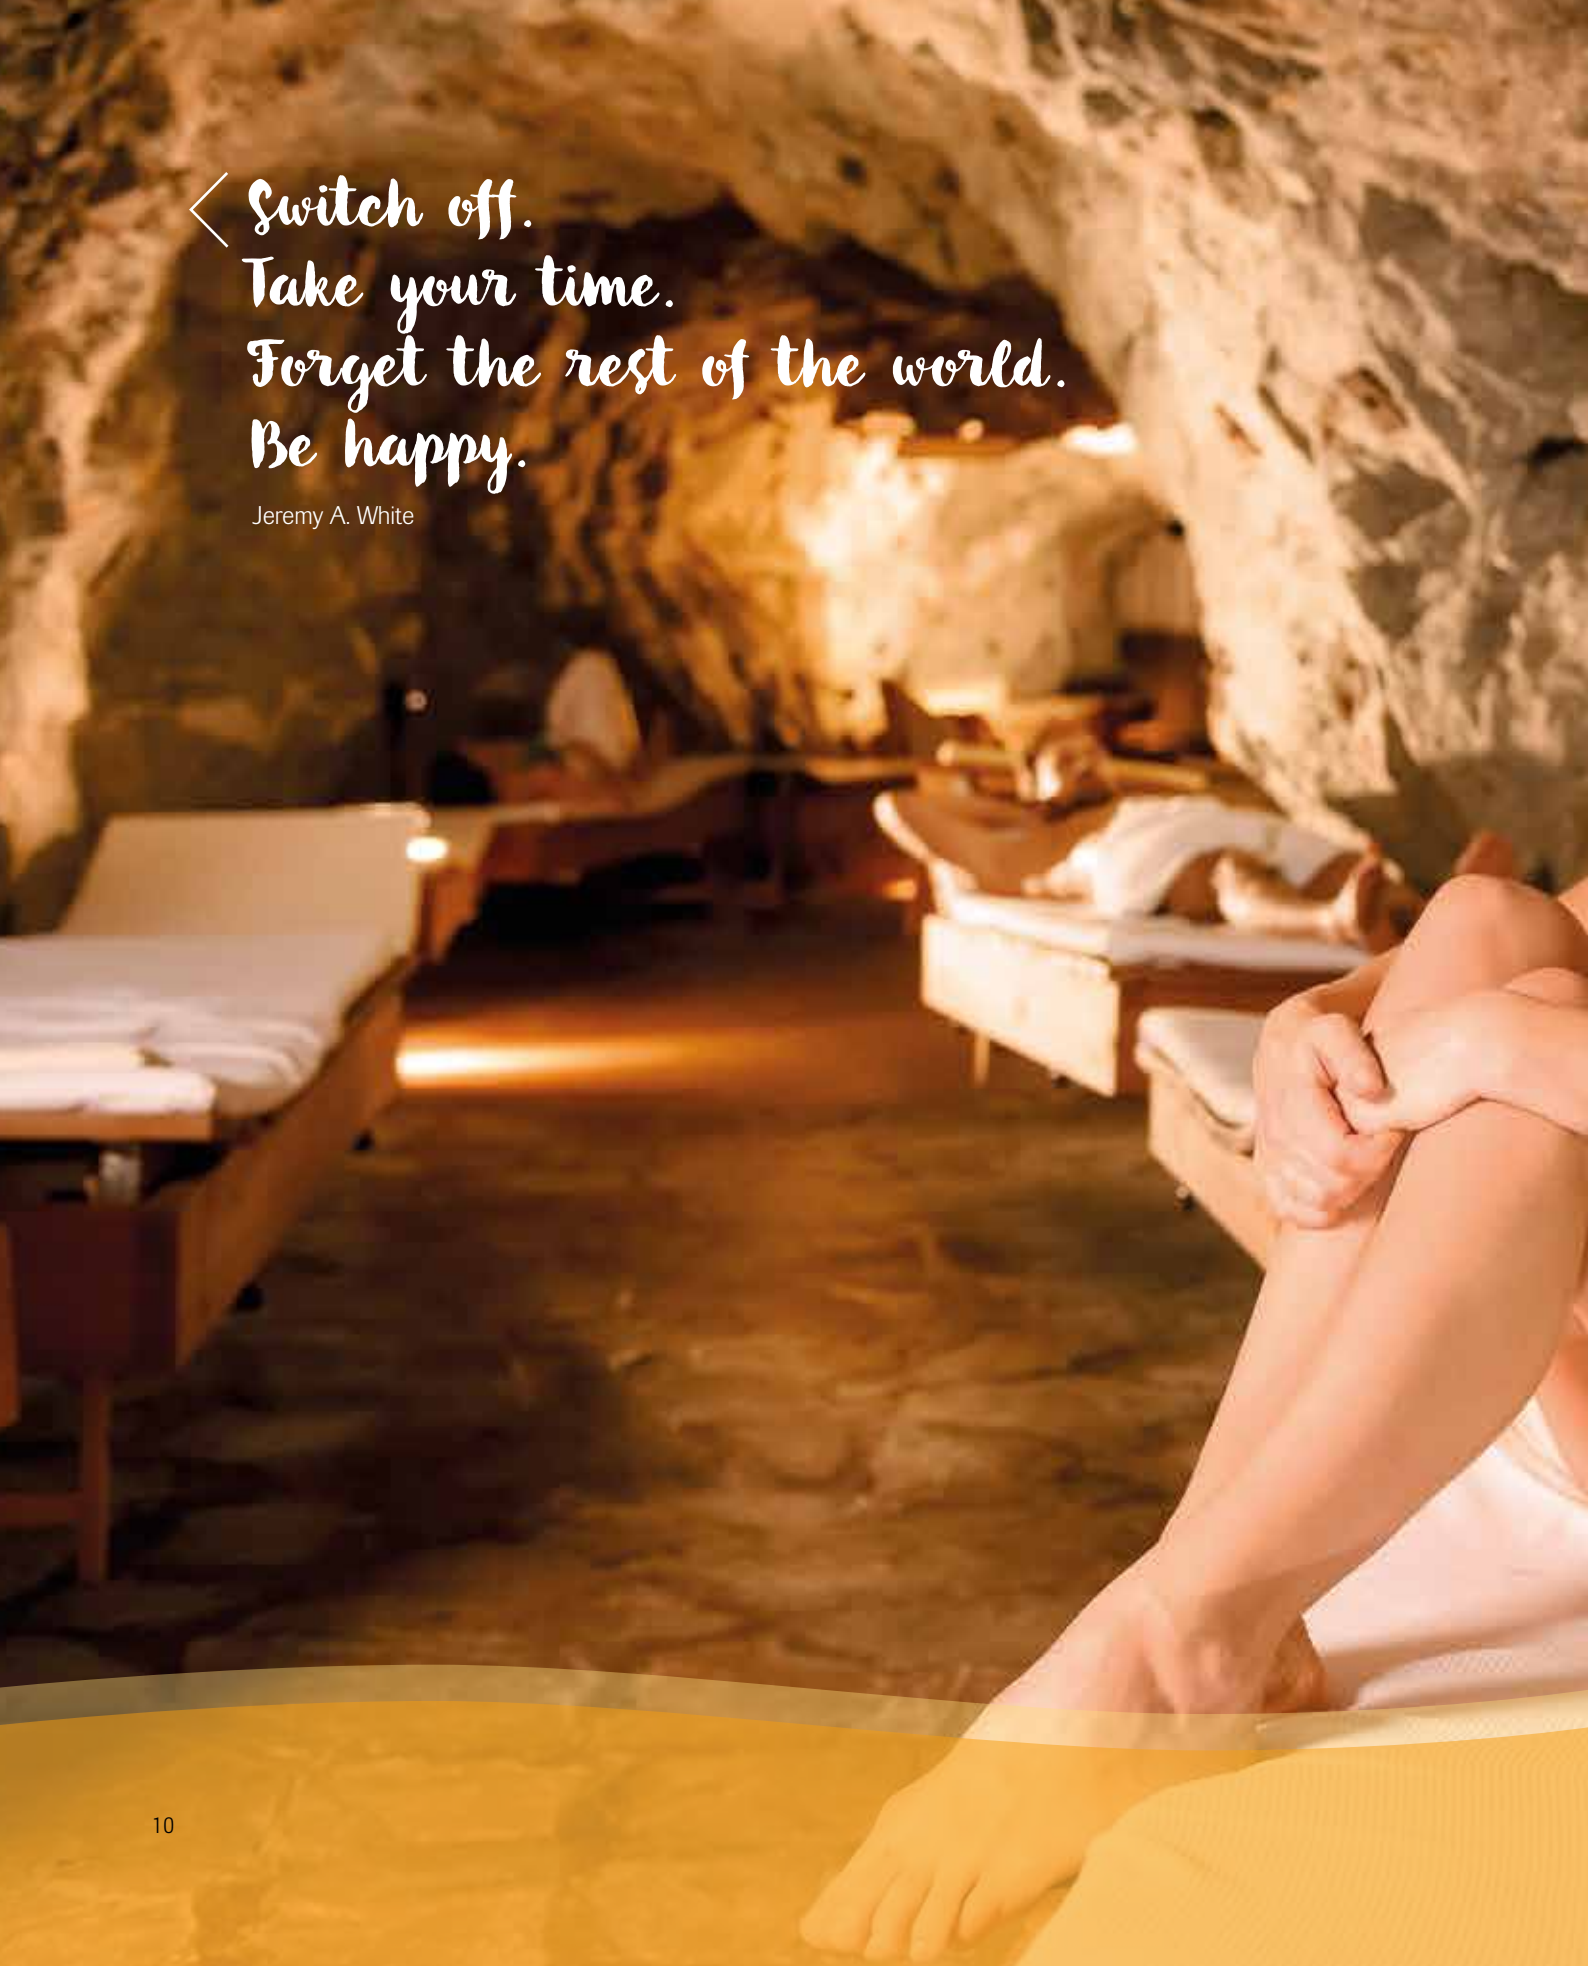

Immune Stabilisation

Relaxation & stress relief

Further information

Detailed information on the scientific evidence and on the studies carried out in the field of radon therapy can be found in our brochure "Scientific Information – Summary of the most important studies on the proof of efficacy" (in German).

A person is relaxing in a cave spa. They are lying on a wooden table with a white towel, their legs crossed and arms resting on their knees. The cave walls are rough and textured, and the floor is made of stone. The lighting is warm and golden, creating a cozy atmosphere. PAIN RELIEF - HEALING
GALLERY THERAPY

THE THERAPY CONCEPT – HOLISTIC THERAPY

The session in the healing gallery for pain relief, an anti-inflammatory effect and immune stabilisation is only one part of the holistic therapy concept in the Gastein Healing Gallery Health Centre. In this, the healing gallery therapy is the clear focus, but it is supplemented by two other main focuses. In the following you will find an overview of the therapy concept of the Gastein Healing Gallery Health Centre.

EXERCISE, RELAXATION, MEDICAL AND THERAPEUTIC EXPERTISE

Our team of doctors and therapists will work out an individual treatment concept together with you. Because apart from the healing gallery therapy, the health centre offers a comprehensive range of physical therapies, optimally combining conventional medicine and natural medicine.

OUR THERAPIST TEAM OFFERS SPECIFIC TREATMENTS

- ▶ Medical gymnastics
- ▶ Stretching, bearing and breathing exercises
- ▶ Individual sports therapy, such as therapeutic climbing or Nordic Walking
- ▶ Targeted building-up of muscles on equipment
- ▶ Relaxation techniques
- ▶ Massages
- ▶ and many more

PAIN RELIEF – HEALING GALLERY THERAPY

At the centre of the therapy concept is the Gastein Healing Gallery therapy. The unique healing climate in the Radhausberg in Gastein causes long-lasting successes, especially in diseases of the muscular-skeletal and locomotor system, and in diseases of the skin and respiratory passages, in the following form:

Pain relief (on average 9 months)
Medication reduction (up to 1 year)
Anti-Inflammatory effect
Immune Stabilisation
Relaxation & stress relief

HELP FOR SELF-HELP – BECOMING YOUR OWN EXPERT

“Help for self-help” is also a substantial part of the holistic therapy concept. To achieve this, doctors and therapists in the health centre offer individual advice and programmes aimed at small groups. The aim here is to give patients motivation and ideas for self-reliance, to be better able to deal with their illness and for better self-management. Possible themes of this therapy focus are:

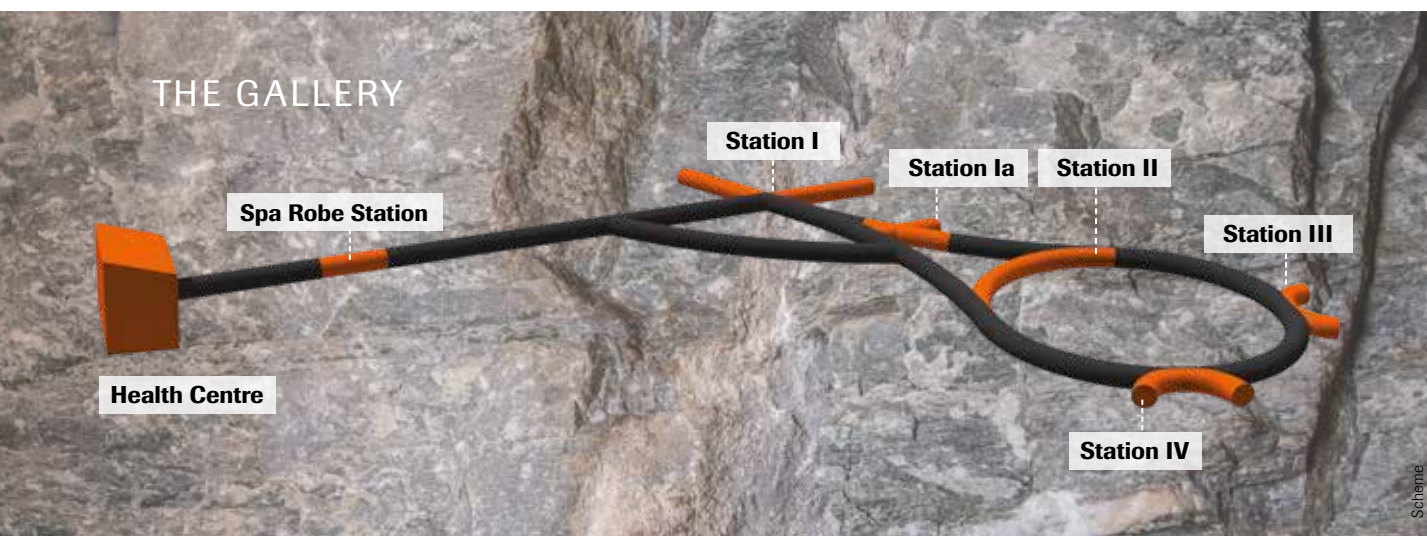

- ▶ Occurrence, course and treatment of the disease
- ▶ Indication-specific lifestyle questions
- ▶ Prevention of complications
- ▶ Coping with pain
- ▶ Help with everyday limitations

Use the range of services provided on the basis of our holistic therapy concept, discover your inner strength and find new balance in body, mind and spirit. The spectacular natural surroundings and the high alpine location of the Gastein Valley will make your stay even more invigorating. See you in Gastein!

THE DISCOVERY OF THE HEALING GALLERY

How it all started

At the end of the Ice Age, large quantities of melt water seeped along unmineralised rock fissures and through the 3,000 m deep gneiss layer down to the dense slate soil. The water heated up and formed an enormous incidence of thermal waters. These hot springs rose again and became enriched with trace elements such as radium, fluoride and chrome. In the hot water, the radium dissolved further into radon.

Gold mining in Gastein

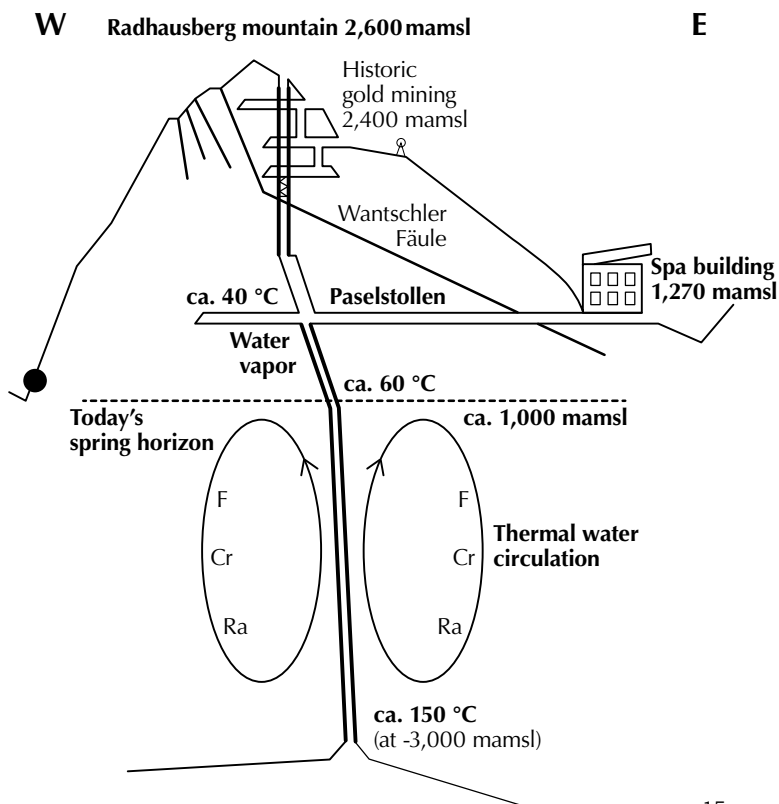

The mining of gold and silver in the Gastein Valley had its heyday in the 16th and 17th century. During the second World War, the attempt was made to reactivate gold mining in the Radhausberg, in order to resume this previous success. Unfortunately, the gold that had been hoped for was not found – instead, other discoveries were made: the joint problems of the miners working in the gallery decreased strongly. The reason for this was the radon-bearing water vapour, which rose from the thermal waters through the rock fissures and heated the gallery up to over 40 °C (104 °F).

The curiosity of science

The decrease in the rheumatic complaints of the miners was subsequently looked into more closely by the University of Innsbruck and the Gastein Research Institute. Extensive scientific studies showed that the high temperature, the air humidity and the radon content of the air possess a healing effect. After further studies, it was concordantly assessed in an evaluation by Prof. Dr. Scheminzky and Prof. Dr. Hittmair of the University of Innsbruck that: “A healing effect is to be attributed to treatment in the Gastein Healing Gallery which, in a considerable number of illnesses, exceeds the value of the most modern treatment methods.”

As a result, a health spa business was opened in 1952 in the Gastein Healing Gallery. Since then, around 12,000 patients a year have been finding relief thanks to the worldwide unique Gastein Healing Gallery therapy.

“FOR ME, THE GASTEIN HEALING GALLERY HAS BECOME A FRIEND WHO SIMPLY DOES ME GOOD.”

BETTINA STAIB

THIS IS MY STORY

PAIN. PAINS IN THE NECK AND THE SHOULDERS. PAINS IN DAILY LIFE. OPENING A BOTTLE? IT HURTS. PUTTING ON CLOTHING? IT HURTS. OF COURSE, THERE ARE DAYS WHEN THE PAINS SUBSIDE. JUST UNFORTUNATELY TOO FEW OF THEM.

My name is Bettina Staib, I am 57 years old and have been suffering from fibromyalgia since 2001. This is a soft-tissue disease that causes intense pain in muscles and joints. I was always a very agile person, who loved spending time in the fresh air – I especially loved hiking. But then came the illness, which took every activity away from me. The beauties of nature, the fascinating world of mountains and the gorgeous views from the summits receded far away from me. From then on, doctors' appointments determined my life. Check-ups, tests and measurements became part of my everyday life. Despite everything, the doctors did not arrive at any conclusion. It took a long time before a diagnosis was made: fibromyalgia.

IT TOOK A LONG TIME BEFORE A DIAGNOSIS WAS MADE: FIBROMYALGIA

This diagnosis was the start of a difficult time for me. As well as the influence of strong medicines, I had to undergo various manual therapies. Massages do other people good – for me they were torture. Imagine your joints are inflamed. And you are massaged in exactly these inflamed places. Relaxation? Not a bit of it. You feel even more pain than before. And with each pain, the despair increases. Will this ever end?

Nevertheless, I never gave up. I always tried to stay positive. I continued to do my job as a sales clerk in a textiles shop. My colleagues knew of my illness and that on bad days I could not perform 100 %. It was okay for them. But for me it was a daily struggle. My quality of life suffered, and I enjoyed life less and less.

One day, after I had already been living with the diagnosis and the pain for two years, an acquaintance told me about Gastein Healing Gallery and radon therapy. A therapy with heat, air humidity and radon – could that be the right way for me? I had to try it. So I arranged a three-week stay in Bad Gastein, including four sessions in the healing gallery per week. My dear husband, who always stood by me on good and bad days of my illness, also accompanied me on this step, and drove to Gastein with me, to pursue what was possibly the last glimmer of hope. The hearty reception at the Gastein Healing Gallery Health Centre was already balm for my soul. I was well advised by the doctor, the procedure of the session was explained in detail and understandably. Slowly I felt a thrill of nervous anticipation arising in me. And soon the healing gallery train was chauffeuring me into the inside of the mountain, further and further into the moist warmth of the gallery. In the healing gallery, a very special atmosphere awaited me – quiet, gentle, absolutely soothing. A pleasant warmth enveloped me. I found it easier to move, my body felt softer and more supple. At that moment, which is to say that one hour in the healing gallery, I did something exclusively for me. And it did me an incredible amount of good.

THE HEALING GALLERY IS A REAL SOUL-STROKER

I can now say that the healing gallery is the best thing that has happened to me for a long time. It arrived in my life at the right time. Since then, my husband and I have travelled to Gastein once a year, where I treat myself to a total of eight sessions. Every year, I look forward again to being embraced by the pleasant warmth of the gallery, which is a treat for body and soul in equal measure. The healing gallery is a real soul-stroker. Of course, I still have pains. But I have fewer attacks of pain. And the best thing about it is: I no longer need any medication!

Now I can enjoy my life again. I can plan my free time again, can do sport again, can go out into the country again... in short: for me the Gastein Healing Gallery has become a friend who simply does me good. I have regained my enjoyment of life. And I am extremely grateful for that.
